

Huey Long Wakes Up to Fact Filibuster Was a Costly Indulgence

WASHINGTON — Huey Long is not so cockily unconcerned about last week's inglorious filibuster as he likes to pretend.

The strutting Louisianaian is nobody's fool in his saner moments, and he has had plenty of opportunity to realize that his relapse into exhibitionism was costly indulgence.

The reasons for this are: 1. The affair demonstrated that for all his mental alertness and strident aggressiveness, Huey lacks balance. There was utterly no occasion for the filibuster. No astute leader would have laid himself open to such a mauling. That Huey did so, evinced clearly that he lacks self-control.

2. The incident also proved that Huey is not a dangerous floor fighter; that if his bluff is called he has nothing but a pair of leather-bellows lungs to back him up.

The last was what happened in the filibuster. Repeatedly this session Huey has taken the floor and started a flood of rhetorical bombs. Each time he scared Democratic wheel-horses into compromise or surrender.

And the closest did last week. After tying up the Senate for the entire afternoon he proposed to quit if the leaders would agree to vote on the NRA resolution next day. Senator Pat Harrison—extremely gun-shy of Huey—moved to accept.

But the Progressives refused. "You've started this," they said. "Now finish it."

To say that this startled Huey is to put it mildly.

The Kingfish goes to great pains to claim political and economic blood-brotherhood with the Progressives, and he is constantly strutting this before the galleries.

Insiders have known for some time that the Progressives actually did not trust Huey. But their open act of war served the first public notice of this. Or, as one of them, talking off the record, put it: "We wanted to remove all doubt that the tail is not wagging the dog."

The incident was not lost on the alleged Kingfish.

His first act after reeling from the vocal marathon was to seek out the Progressives and complain about their unfriendliness. They offered no consolation.

Alter Ego

Secretary Harold Ickes' was parrying a barrage of sharp questions. A reporter remarked: "Now Mr. Ickes, in your capacity as Secretary of the Interior and not as PWA Administrator, how would you..."

He got no further. Ickes lifted his hand for silence. Then rising from his chair he solemnly walked around it, reseated himself and said: "Now go ahead with your question. I am in my other capacity."

New Policy

Though not generally realized, the announced plans of the Rural Electrification Administration mark a distinct departure in New Deal policy.

In its other great electricity programs—the TVA, East Tennessee, Grand Coulee, State of Washington, Fort Peck, Montana, Casper, Alcoa, Wyoming, and Passaic, New Jersey—the Roosevelt regime is pushing projects in direct competition to private interests.

In the case of the REA, however, it is different.

Morris L. Cooke, brilliant head of the new agency, is going to great pains to emphasize that the government "wants and hopes for the cooperation of private capital."

FIGHT TO SAVE BRUNO STARTS BEFORE COURT

Rosecrans Charges Wilentz Browbeat Hauptmann; Fair Trial Denied

ANNA IS EXCLUDED

14 Judges, Dignified Quiet, Hearing Appeal

STATE HOUSE, Trenton, N. J., June 20—Charging he had been unfairly tried, that his constitutional rights had been violated, that he had been "bullied and browbeaten" by the state at Flemington, Bruno Richard Hauptmann today began his fight for a new trial before the court of errors and appeals, New Jersey's highest tribunal.

In an atmosphere as quiet and dignified as a bank director's meeting, 14 black-robed judges of the court heard the charges, made by the lawyers of the condemned slayer of Baby Lindbergh preparatory to deciding whether he may have another chance or die in the electric chair.

Wife Is Excluded

There were only two incidents in the solemn proceedings reminiscent of the flamboyant days of the Flemington trial.

One was the exclusion from the courtroom of Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, wife of the defendant, and the Rev. D. G. Werner, of the Bronx, N. Y. The other was a last-minute discovery of an artfully concealed dictaphone behind the judges' bench. This was ripped out together with its wires which ran to a basement room.

Aside from the lawyers in the case, few of the principals of the trial were present. Hauptmann was not there, remaining in his death house cell in the state prison a mile and a half away. Colonel Lindbergh and Justice Thomas W. Trenchard also were absent. Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the state troopers, remained outside the courtroom to direct the big detail of police guarding the building.

One of the most controversial exhibits at the trial, the gossamer ladder used by the Lindbergh kidnaper, was carried into the courtroom before the heavy oaken doors were locked.

Ebbert Rosecrans of defense counsel opened the arguments, submitting a brief of 130 pages in which 16 points were listed as a basis for a new trial.

Rights Violated

The principal contentions in the brief were that the attorney general's summation at the trial violated the common law and constitutional rights of Hauptmann; that Wilentz "bull-dozed, browbeat, belittled and chastised" Hauptmann on the witness stand and that Justice Trenchard's charge to the jury was prejudicial to the defendant.

The tone and language of the judge in many parts was that of an advocate for the prosecution and therefore not such a judicial presentation of the case as the defendant was entitled to, the defense lawyers asserted.

Rosecrans especially stressed the charge that the state switched its theory of how the murder was committed in its closing argument, not giving the machine-gunner a chance to answer.

BRITISH DIVORCE SUIT PRINCIPALS

British society is shocked to learn of a sensational divorce suit involving Prince Ali Khan, heir to the untold wealth of his Highness Prince Aga Khan, and two other members of the empire's wealthiest families. Prince Ali Khan was cited as correspondent in the divorce action being brought by Loel Guinness, member of parliament, against his young and beautiful wife, Mrs. Joan Guinness, above, daughter of a baron.

FDR Opens Way For Bitter Duel

WASHINGTON, June 20—President Roosevelt's bold proposal to progressively break up vast concentrations of wealth and huge industrial combines through the weapon of federal taxation presaged today one of the bitterest fights in American politics in many years.

In that connection, Mr. Roosevelt's attack on great wealth and great fortunes rather cuts the ground from under the Huey Longs, the Father Coughlins, the Townsends, and others who have been beating the share-the-wealth can-tions and demanding redistribution.

The president did not use the term "share the wealth," but he advocated the principle in every paragraph of his remarkable message.

The heart of his program was contained in these words: "The transmission from generation to generation of vast fortunes by will, inheritance, or gift is not consistent with the ideals and sentiments of the American people."

Dargusch Announces Economy Ax to Force Reduction In Staff Numbers.

COLUMBUS, June 20—Officials of the state tax commission today quickly jumped into line to comply with the budget program of Gov. Martin L. Davey by announcing that preparations are being made to consolidate the excise and sales tax divisions.

Just how many employees will feel the cut of the economy ax as a result of the consolidation plan, has not been definitely figured but Carlton Dargusch, vice chairman of the state tax commission, gave assurance that the tax commission would be trimmed to meet the budget allowance set by the governor.

The administrative heads of the departments, R. P. Bartholow, chief of the sales tax section and C. R. Johnston, chief of the excise tax division, will remain at the head of the consolidated department and office staffs will remain intact, Dargusch said.

There are approximately 350 field agents for the two departments, and Dargusch said the commission hopes to reduce the number to approximately 250.

Attack Follows Davey's Censure of Prexy

COLUMBUS, June 20—Ohio State university's alumni rallied to the support of the president, Dr. George W. Rightmire, today after Gov. Martin L. Davey had offered to send "capable business executives" to the big state university to show Rightmire how to run it efficiently with the reduced appropriation allowed for the 1935-36 biennium.

"The people are still able to distinguish between sound and sensible state policies and a play to the galleries," said Phil S. Bradford, national president of the Ohio State University Alumni association.

What of Other Bills?

"If the proper education of their children is a 'raid on the state treasury' as Mr. Davey says, then how can he justify $1,000 for a rug, $500 for a portrait of himself and a 50 per cent increase in his own office appropriation?"

Bradford served notice on the governor that the citizens of Ohio are not "going to sit supinely by while their prized institutions are reduced to make selfish political capital for a single individual."

Deserves Same Chance

"Thousands of loyal alumni believe that the present generation deserves the same fine chance they had to get a decent college education. They don't want a dime store university for their children, any more than they expect their governor to live in a shack."

"By more than a quarter century of devoted and enlightened leadership, 'Prexy' William O'xley Thompson built this university into the lives of the people of Ohio. The integrity of that leadership President Rightmire has maintained and carried forward."

"Ohio State men and women from one end of the state to the other will stand by these leaders and will fight for fair treatment of the university."

COUNCIL SUPPORTS PARK FOR IRELAND

Council, Wednesday evening, added impetus to the movement to establish a memorial park in the Chillicothe vicinity out of respect and admiration for the late William "Billy" Ireland. Dispatch cartoonist.

The resolution, a copy of which is to be sent to the Chillicothe council, reads: "Be it resolved by the council of the city of Circleville, Ohio: "That, there now having been begun a movement to establish a fitting memorial in our sister city of Chillicothe, Ohio, in the form of a memorial park for William Ireland, cartoonist, philosopher and friend, being greatly in favor of such movement, the council of the City of Circleville does make and declares this resolution, highly commending such movement, approving it and suggesting that such a park be named 'William Ireland Memorial park.'"

67 ASK TRAFFIC LIGHT ON E. MAIN

Forty-seven residents of E. Main-st., Mingo-st. and the Lancaster-pk. petitioned council Wednesday evening for erection of a 24-hour traffic light at the Main-Mingo-Lancaster pike intersection.

Clarence Helvering and Alfred Lee, who appeared in favor of the light, declared the corner was one of the most dangerous in the city. Mr. Lee advised moving the light from Scioto and Mound-sts. to the east end.

COUNCIL ASKS DATA ON WATER UTILITY; DEBT HEARING SET

The move to purchase the plant and distribution system of the Ohio Water Service Co. was revived in council Wednesday evening. Councilman Ben H. Gordon offered a motion that Solicitor Carl C. Leist be instructed to get in touch with Foadick and Hilmer, Cincinnati consulting engineers, to learn if their recent estimate as made on the water plant will be up-to-date sufficiently for the city to make application to the government for a loan.

If the report is not up-to-date, Leist is to learn how much the engineers will charge to provide the city the necessary information and how long it will take to obtain it.

The water company can be bought, council has been informed.

Debt Showdown Near

The move came after Solicitor Leist read a telegram to council urging that some action be taken toward settlement of the city's debt of nearly $13,000 for fire hydrant rental. The telegram was received by Harry B. Denman, manager of the Ohio Water Service Co. office here, and was sent by G. Taylor Evans, secretary of the firm.

The wire informed the officials that fire protection service will be ended September 1 in Washington, C. H. if that city's huge bill is not paid or arrangement made for payment. Circleville's hearing on the same kind of an application is scheduled for July 12.

Council Is Assailed

Council and other city officials were "hailed over the coals" Wednesday evening by L. C. "Doc" Hammel who charged "they have been sitting back on their haunches and doing nothing about excess charges being made by utility companies."

Hammel told council that it could issue bonds in any amount desired providing the city could show that the project could pay for itself in 15 years. Hammel urged construction of a municipal power plant declaring the city could save thousands of dollars annually.

2 WALEYS MAY ADMIT CHARGE

FEDERAL BUILDING, Tacoma, Wash., June 20—Whether Harmon Metz Waley and his wife Margaret will fight Uncle Sam's kidnapping indictment against them, will be made known today when they are arraigned here before U. S. District Judge E. E. Cushman.

Official circles buzzed with a rumor the Waleys, captured in Salt Lake City with approximately half of the $200,000 Weyerhaeuser ransom money, will plead guilty and be sent on their way to penitentiaries before sundown this evening.

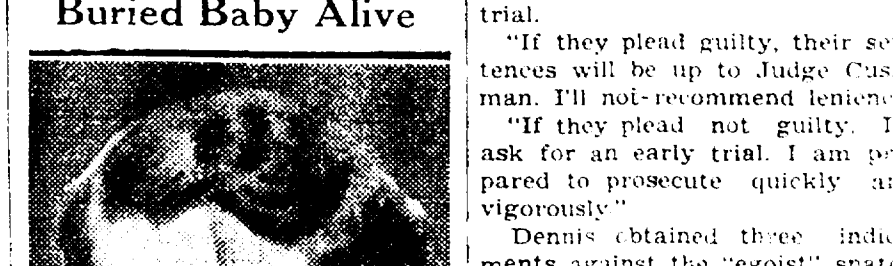

"I don't know what the Waleys' plan to do," U. S. Attorney J. Charles Dennis said. "They can plead guilty and take their medicine or they can ask for a jury trial."

"If they plead guilty, their sentences will be up to Judge Cushman. I'll not recommend leniency."

"If they plead not guilty, I'll ask for an early trial. I am prepared to prosecute quickly and vigorously."

Dennis obtained three indictments against the "egoist" snatch gang—the Waleys and William Mahan yesterday from the federal grand jury which was called into special session.

Solicitor Instructed to Begin Work Toward Issuance of Bonds

Goeller Advocates Police, Fire Reduction

Faced with a dangerous financial situation, council today had taken steps to issue deficiency bonds to help alleviate conditions.

The city dads, Wednesday evening, after a lengthy discussion in recessed meeting at which time a number of new statutes concerning bond issues were read, instructed Solicitor Carl C. Leist to obtain from Auditor Forrest Short the necessary certificate and that City Auditor Lillian Young be instructed to prepare the necessary statement required in order for the city to take advantage of a bill recently passed by the legislature concerning deficiency bond issues. The certificate and statement with a request for permission to issue bonds will be forwarded to the tax commission.

Finances Shocking

Imperative need for some such action was thrust into the council meeting when Ben H. Gordon, chairman of the harassed finance committee, read a statement concerning the city's financial situation.

The distribution of the county auditor from the general tax fund put $10,961.30 into the city's general fund but Gordon read unpaid obligations of the city totalling $10,341.42 in the various funds in addition to the $12,913.59 owed the Ohio Water Service for hydrant rental on an old bill.

The money received from the auditor is expected to run the city for quite a while, but how it can with the great number of unpaid bills is puzzling officials.

Outstanding obligations include: safety and health department, $256.54; service department for recent sewers, $608.63; street lights to the Southern Ohio Electric.

IMPROVEMENT OF WALKS IS URGED

Service Director William Justus has been instructed by council to visit owners of property where sidewalks need repair and urge that they be fixed.

Mayor W. B. Cady urged Wednesday evening in council meeting that property owners be asked to purchase materials for such projects and that the FERA would provide the labor necessary. Labor is the greatest part of the cost on such projects.

"It has been done in other cities," Mayor Cady said.

Mr. Justus plans to interview some of the persons where sidewalk repair is needed and urge their co-operation.

The city is planning to set an example by having walks on Franklin-st. and around Memorial hall rebuilt under the plan.

Huey Long Wakes Up to Fact Filibuster Was a Costly Indulgence

The strutting Louisianian is nobody's fool in his saner moments, and he has had plenty of opportunity to realize that his relapse into exhibitionism was costly indulgence.

The reasons for this are:

1. The affair demonstrated that for all his mental alertness and strident aggressiveness, Huey lacks balance. There was utterly no occasion for the filibuster. No astute leader would have laid himself open to such a mauling. That Huey did so, evinced clearly that he lacks self-control.

2. The incident also proved that Huey is not a dangerous floor fighter; that if his bluff is called he has nothing but a pair of leather-bellows lungs to back him up.

Finances Shocking

Imperative need for some such action was thrust into the council meeting when Ben H. Gordon, chairman of the harassed financial committee, read a statement concerning the city's financial situation.

The distribution of the county auditor from the general tax fund put $10,961.30 into the city's general fund but Gordon read unpaid obligations of the city totalling $10,341.42 in the various funds in addition to the $12,913.59 owed the Ohio Water Service for hydrant rental on an old bill.

The money received from the auditor is expected to run the city for quite a while, but how it can with the great number of unpaid bills is puzzling officials.

Outstanding obligations include: safety and health department, $256.54; service department for recent sewers, $608.63; street lights to the Southern Ohio Electric.

IMPROVEMENT OF WALKS IS URGED

Service Director William Justus has been instructed by council to visit owners of property where sidewalks need repair and urge that they be fixed.

Mayor W. B. Cady urged Wednesday evening in council meeting that property owners be asked to purchase materials for such projects and that the FERA would provide the labor necessary. Labor is the greatest part of the cost on such projects.

"It has been done in other cities," Mayor Cady said.

Mr. Justus plans to interview some of the persons where sidewalk repair is needed and urge their co-operation.

The city is planning to set an example by having walks on Franklin-st and around Memorial hall rebuilt under the plan.

SENATE SAYS OUSTED MAN'S STORY 'FLOP'

Most of Mitchell Testimony on Graft Hearsay, Officials Declare.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Democrats and Republicans today privately dubbed the senate's Mitchell investigation a flop, but the ousted assistant secretary of commerce continued to voice his general charges of new deal graft and corruption just the same.

At his own request, Ewing Y. Mitchell, of Missouri, returned before the senate commerce committee today to present what he said was fresh evidence. His lengthy testimony yesterday was concerned almost entirely with testimony already produced by the senate's special merchant marine committee and he was pressed for "facts not opinions." He promised to produce today additional grounds for his own conclusions that "graft and corruption abound in the department of commerce."

To convince them

Unmindful of the assertions of committee members that he had failed to submit any specific facts to support his claims, Mitchell told Senator Bailey (D) of North Carolina, one of those who criticized his testimony, that he would convince him of the necessity to "clean out" the commerce department.

On behalf of the Democrats who defended the department against the Mitchell charges that special interests, seeking illegal benefits for shipping interests, have prevailed over Secretary of Commerce Roper, there was the Mitchell admission that he has no "actual personal knowledge" of money changing hands as a bribe.

For those who insist on a more through inquiry into his charges, there was the satisfaction of Mitchell's testimony that the government has "given away" millions to those special interests, as shown by the records, and that these actions he claimed, inevitably indicate corruption.

Senator Vandenberg (R) of Michigan, made the ousted official admit most of his evidence was hearsay, except for the testimony produced last year by a senate committee. Vandenberg privately told friends yesterday's testimony was pathetic.

mere gesture is evidenced by the following rules laid down by Cooke:

1. That the REA's construction activities will be conditioned upon what private utilities will do in expanding their rural service. In other words if a private company in a certain area is willing to expand its rural lines the REA will keep aloof from that area.

2. That the REA will give first consideration to territory not now served by private interests with electricity, or not likely to be to any extent.

3. That in financing rural electrification developments the REA will loan, not grant the money. Cooke is firmly opposed to outright grants. He holds that the activities of his agency can best be promoted if conducted on a strictly business basis.

The REA was allotted $100,000,000 from the work-relief funds. According to government estimates only 800,000 out of 6,000,000 farms in the country are electrified.

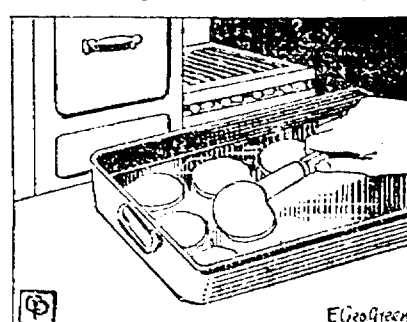

Of the remaining 5,200,000 Cooke figures that from one to three million offer an economically sound "juice" market.

And he points out the further significant fact that an electrical farm being served by current at reasonable rates open a vast field for the sale of electrical appliances and equipment.

MEDICAL SCIENCE ADVANCES

QUIETLY and tirelessly, but with a far more extensive degree of success than is realized by the general public, medical science is delving into the causes of human ills and is devising the means of contending against them. It is only occasionally, when medical men gather to confer and to reveal to one another the results of research, study and experimentation, that the outside world learns something of the progress made.

The joint convention of the American and Canadian Medical Associations, held in Atlantic City last week brought to light some of the wonders wrought through the constant endeavor to repair the defects in the human mechanism, to make life some what easier and to prolong its span.

It is important to the human race to learn of the "brain bath," which literally "washes the brain" with a solution of ordinary salt and water, freeing it from the poison that causes such diseases as infantile paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sleeping sickness and some kinds of spinal meningitis.

And science has discovered, too, an antiseptic which is far more powerful than any now in use, yet which is so harmless that it may be taken internally, and it has discovered an effective method of treating neuritis through the oral administration of the new isolated crystals of vitamin B-1, known as the "nerve vitamin."

These are all important accomplishments by reputable physicians and scientists and soon, no doubt, they will find their way into everyday medical practice, alleviating human misery and suffering, and lending new appeal and enjoyment to life.

ALASKAN TROUBLES

THE discouraging advices concerning the several plights of the government's synthetic Alaskan pioneer continue to pour in, taking our mind off the weather.

The late news from the Matanuska valley is as upsetting as the earlier dispatches. The pioneers, it seems, have had to carry water because a dilatory government did not get the wells dug in time. Some of them didn't understand they were to farm, although they signed up for forty acres each. They thought there would be carpenter work and highway construction in Alaska. Possibly some of them pictured jobs painting flagpoles, pressing suits, delivering groceries and other work of that type.

This is a sad story, that tale of the disappointment of those rugged pioneers, think of that erstwhile Michigan farmer who had to carry a bucket of water to his family a mile away, and weep with him when he says he "didn't travel 4,000 miles to become a water boy." The federal government is notoriously and nitely shameless concerning such matters. Otherwise it would do something about it.

If you don't know what managed currency is, listen to relatives when a widow gets her life insurance.

Another need of the times is something to drop in the dishwasher to give fingernails a nice polish.

Yet out in the sticks you sometimes find people who are polite when they are not trying to sell you anything.

What to do with left-overs? Well, daughter usually saves them three days to keep from washing the dishes they're in.

News reports describe Sam Insull as laughing up his sleeve. Lucky chap! A sleeve presupposes the possession of a shirt, in which respect Sam is far more fortunate than many of his old clients.

Huey Long is showing signs of weakening along psychological lines. He promised to send every boy to college, when everybody knows that where the boy really wants to go is swimming or to a ball game.

Odd Symptom-Complexes Due to New Compounds

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WITH THE startlingly rapid advance of chemistry and the introduction of new chemical compounds into industry and medicine, there arise peculiar symptom-complexes, puzzling at first, which are finally recognized as due to a chronic poisoning with some new compound.

Such was the case with a peculiar blood condition of which many instances were seen during the past few years. There was a sudden lowering of the white cells of the blood. No treatment was very successful. Physicians all over were puzzled. And then it was found that a drug used as a headache remedy, amido-phenyl, is capable of producing the change. In twelve out of a series of thirteen patients with the disease, it was possible to obtain a history of the use of amido-phenyl.

Yet we might have learned the lesson from the study of a certain kind of industrial poisoning—benzol poisoning from inhalation of the fumes of coal tar benzene. As far back as 1910, selling reported three cases in girls using a benzol-rubber seal for the can. The symptoms and blood changes are identical, and this form of benzol is similar chemically to amido-phenyl.

New Drugs Discovered
Sometimes knowledge of industrial poisoning helps us to add a new drug to our list. Certain chlorinated hydrocarbons, notably trichlorethane, are very efficient fat and rubber solvents, and are non-inflammable, thus they were used for such things as painting a coating over the wings of aeroplanes. They were all found to have poisonous characteristics, trichlorethane so much so that it has fallen out of use. But with another and less toxic compound, trichloroethylene, the toxic properties were found to be minor, consisting in the causation of numbness over the face.

It occurred to a physician who was familiar with this effect that the substance might be used in the treatment of trifacial neuralgia—or the dolorous. It was found to be successful in most of the cases in which it was used. It is poured on a handkerchief and inhaled. Care must be taken not to get an overdose, for while those who have used it for medicinal purposes say there are no harmful symptoms, in industrial work, where, of course, the amounts absorbed are massive, definitely toxic conditions have resulted. But nearly any drug is poisonous if used improperly or to excess. Thus no doctor would be without mercury; it is one of the most useful of drugs. Yet when exposed over a long time to large doses of it, as are the hat makers and felt garment workers, there develops a definite set of symptoms. Most often it is a tremor, and the name given to it by the workmen themselves is "tatter's shakes". Which shows that they, themselves, recognized the nature of it before the industrial toxicologist got busy.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendenning can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenning, in care of this paper. A YOUNG NAVY MAN'S ROMANCE BELLE BURNS GROMER

CHAPTER 33
LIA'S FATHER remained an enigma. In time he established himself in a cottage with Zonsky, the Cossack, as factotum. And although he might have been engaged in writing a book, Val was never able to discover him at it. The chap came regularly to the bungalow where Val often caught him staring at his daughter with an oddly speculative expression in his secretive black eyes. Lia had remained ill at ease in her father's presence. Indeed, the only favorable reaction he seemed to engender in her was a certain pride in his picturesque qualities when she could display him to her acquaintances.

Because he was a charming conversationalist and brought the dwellers along Officers' Row a breath of all the foreign ports they had variously held, Garenne was a popular figure in the Yard and was invited often to dine. He was intensely proud of his Charlestonian background yet he had lived so long out of his own country he seemed no longer American. Dressed in white monkey jacket and with polished Wellington boots beneath his high-waisted black evening trousers, he was like a character in some tropical eastern romance. For one so long absent from civilization his extensive wardrobe appeared quite up-to-date although he explained to Val, it had been acquired in London almost three years earlier. He was the possessor of a sable lined overcoat, was never without a boutonniere and claimed to own the finest collection of Oriental snuff bottles in existence.

With his new found son-in-law, Garenne was more considerate and friendly than seemed his wont. In his short-tempered way he even appeared fond of the young officer. And although there were moments when Val deeply resented the explorer's brusque manner toward Lia and the savagely trenchant words he sometimes hurled in her direction, yet he also felt a sort of pity for Garenne which he could neither analyze nor understand. He was convinced, however, that the man was the harried victim of a gnawing anxiety. He was like one waiting for something to happen—something he dreaded. Often he seemed on the verge of never quite arriving at the point of confiding this secret fear. And so why he had come to Bremerton and why he remained there, continued a baffling enigma.

It amazed Val how swiftly the spring passed. Summer was almost here. For weeks he had resolutely turned his back on all diversions save an occasional dinner dance at the Officers' club, had concentrated on his work and spent every free moment at his invention. But when Lia's birthday—a Saturday in late May—approached, he felt that she rated a bit of extravagant gaiety.

Not that this was easy to manage. There had been a pay cut and these days it seemed to take every cent of his never adequate salary for insurance and living expenses. Too, the unsettled times had lowered the value of his few investments so that they were now without income. Yet despite this financial stringency he planned to retrench by making his shabby wardrobe do further service and resolved that Lia's birthday should be a red-letter affair.

In the early morning of this occasion he awakened her with the breakfast tray Grel usually fetched. Then he stood eagerly waiting to see her open the box that contained his gift of sheer silken hose and the coral and gold evening slippers, size two, she had admired in a Seattle shop window. Beside these, a corsage of gardenias tied with silver ribbon was to be delivered later; after luncheon they were playing tennis together; and for the evening, since Lia's father was away on a week-end in Victoria, Val had planned a gala twosome in Seattle where they would dine, do a show, and afterward go to dance at the Club Intime.

Lia seemed delighted with her gifts and the arrangements for the evening, but when Val returned from the office at noon she lay listlessly on the divan. A wretched headache, she complained, had overtaken her while she was doing some morning shopping. She was disappointed to be forced to miss the tennis. He, however, had been working too hard lately and needed the exercise. And so she had asked Jan Edding—who had stopped in with flowers from her garden a while ago—if he might have a game of golf with her this afternoon. He was not to think further of his Lia but was to run along and enjoy himself. When he came home he would find her rested and ready for their lovely evening in Seattle.

Val was all sympathy. A fine way for the poor darling to spend her birthday! But when he insisted on staying with her she lost patience. Since she had made the engagement for him, she contended, he could not so well refuse to keep it. And so, with a regretful kiss, he surrendered, tucked her into bed, lowered the blinds and tiptoed out to caution Opal not to disturb Mrs. Preston.

Jan joined him at the clubhouse looking like a winsome school girl in white pique and with a bright jade ribbon to confine her golden hair. A warm breeze blew in from the bay, the course was not overcrowded, and they laughed and chatted happily as they set off down the fairway. He had forgotten what fun it was to play with Jan; she put a man on his guard in no uncertain style. It was soul-satisfying to see her slender body poised for a drive, the club swing in a clean, controlled late in June and early in July. A Cleveland man was critically injured when a friend fired a toy cannon at him, one bought for July 4 celebration.

Here, it is a case of "they should have known better." In most of the many other similar accidents which will occur before July 4 has passed the principals also "should know better." It is perhaps too much to expect that all people will eschew fireworks, but if fireworks are used in celebrating the least obligation on the part of the users is to take all the precaution possible against accidents.

From the pens of Sidney Clare and Richard Whiting come "It Was Sweet of You," "Rock and Roll" and "Oh, Leo!" while "If I Had a Million Dollars" was contributed by Mercer and Malnick.

AT THE GRAND
Elissa Landi, Joseph Schildkraut and Frank Morgan appear together in "Sisters Under the Skin," the Columbia production which is scheduled to end its showing at the Grand Theatre tonight. David Burton directed from an original story and screen play by Jo Swerling.

Burton, Schildkraut and Morgan had worked together before when Burton directed the two actors in a Broadway presentation of "The Firebrand" in 1925. This is their first reunion since that time, for Schildkraut left Hollywood in 1930, shortly before Morgan and Burton deserted the stage for the screen.

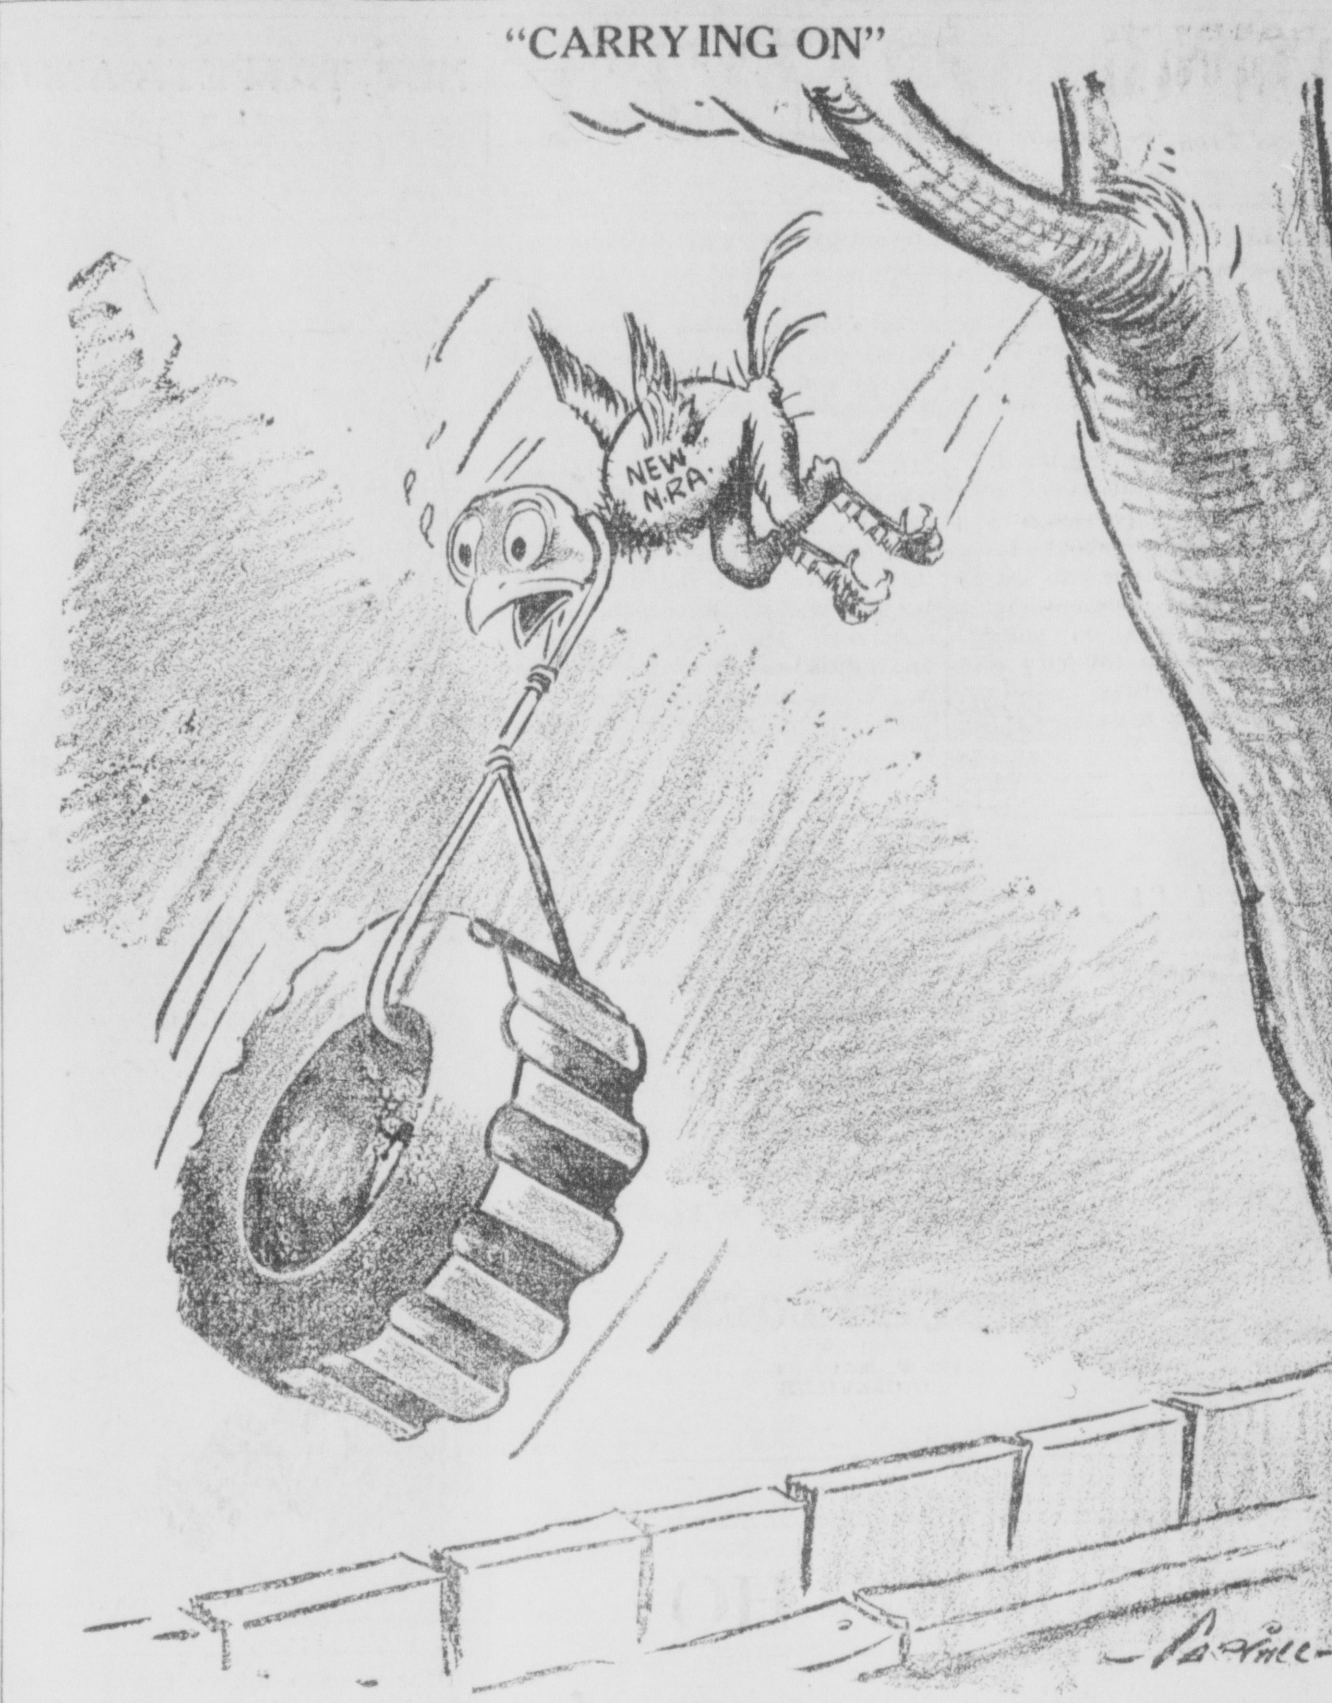

AT THE CIRCLE
Jimmie Durante realizes two of his most ardent screen ambitions feature comedy showing Thursday and Friday at the Circle Theatre.

One is an opportunity to run the sartorial gamut—the other to make violent love to Lupe Velez, one of his best friends off the screen and his favorite actress on.

Full evening dress, cutaway coats, striped trousers, spats, stick silk topper, brocaded pajamas and satin lounging robes—he wears 'em all—and he necks Lupe like she's never been necked before.

Durante, Lupe and Stuart Erwin head the cast of this Harry M. Goetz-Edward 3-reel presentation, which includes Marjorie Rambeau, Robert Armstrong, Mary Carlisle, William Cagney, Thelma Todd, Gus Arnheim and his Orchestra and others.

Bidding went: South, 1-No Trump, when he should have passed; West, doubled; North, 2-Hearts, without any particular justification; East, 2-Spades, knowing that there would be further bidding; South, 3-Hearts; West, 3-Spades; North, 4-Hearts, which could have been doubled and well beaten; East, 4-Spades. Naturally South doubled, expecting North to win the setting trick.

South made an opening lead of his lowest heart, making declarer guess that he must play the K. Three leads of spades cleaned up trumps.

The K of clubs was led at the fifth trick. North had treasured his worthless hearts and let go a club.

so his 7 fell under the K. South declined the trick. He also declined to take the J of clubs, although North's 10 fell, but when the third round of clubs was led, and North showed out, South won his first defensive trick. He led his Ace of hearts for his second trick. Declarer ruffed the next heart led.

South refused to put up his Ace of diamonds on a lead through and dummy's Q won. The eleventh trick was taken with South's Ace of diamonds when the K was led from dummy. South led back his 5 of clubs which declarer ruffed and led his last trump for the thirteenth trick, just fulfilling his game contract doubled.

Of course one may say that South's opening bid did no harm, but my opinion is that East never would have played dummy's K of hearts over the 6 had not South bid 1-No Trump. Probably two heart tricks would have been lost if South never had bid, and game could not have been won.

MEDICAL SCIENCE ADVANCES

QUIETLY and tirelessly, but with a far more extensive degree of success than is realized by the general public, medical science is delving into the causes of human ills and is devising the means of contending against them. It is only occasionally, when medical men gather to confer and to reveal to one another the results of research, study and experimentation, that the outside world learns something of the progress made.

The joint convention of the American and Canadian Medical Associations, held in Atlantic City last week brought to light some of the wonders wrought through the constant endeavor to repair the defects in the human mechanism, to make life some what easier and to prolong its span.

It is important to the human race to learn of the "brain bath," which literally "washes the brain" with a solution of ordinary salt and water, freeing it from the poison that causes such diseases as infantile paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sleeping sickness and some kinds of spinal meningitis.

And science has discovered, too, an antiseptic which is far more powerful than any now in use, yet which is so harmless that it may be taken internally, and it has discovered an effective method of treating neuritis through the oral administration of the new isolated crystals of vitamin B-1, known as the "nerve vitamin."

These are all important accomplishments by reputable physicians and scientists and soon, no doubt, they will find their way into everyday medical practice, alleviating human misery and suffering, and lending new appeal and enjoyment to life.

ALASKAN TROUBLES

THE discouraging advices concerning the several plights of the government's synthetic Alaskan pioneer continue to pour in, taking our mind off the weather.

The late news from the Matanuska valley is as upsetting as the earlier dispatches. The pioneers, it seems, have had to carry water because a dilatory government did not get the wells dug in time. Some of them didn't understand they were to farm, although they signed up for forty acres each. They thought there would be carpenter work and highway construction in Alaska. Possibly some of them pictured jobs painting flagpoles, pressing suits, delivering groceries and other work of that type.

This is a sad story, that tale of the disappointment of those rugged pioneers, think of that erstwhile Michigan farmer who had to carry a bucket of water to his family a mile away, and weep with him when he says he "didn't travel 4,000 miles to become a water boy." The federal government is notoriously and nitely shameless concerning such matters. Otherwise it would do something about it.

If you don't know what managed currency is, listen to relatives when a widow gets her life insurance.

Another need of the times is something to drop in the dishwasher to give fingernails a nice polish.

Yet out in the sticks you sometimes find people who are polite when they are not trying to sell you any thing.

What to do with left-overs? Well, daughter usually saves them three days to keep from washing the dishes they're in.

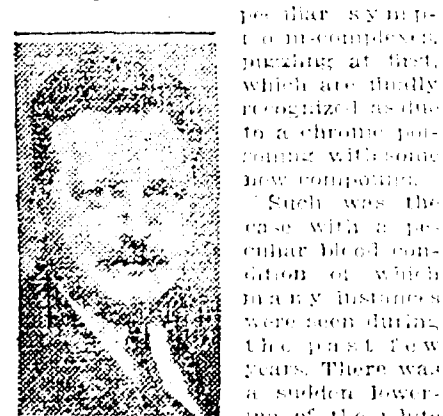

News reports describe Sam Insull as laughing up his sleeve. Lucky chap! A sleeve pin supports the possession of a shirt, in what respect Sam is far more fortunate than many of his old clients.

Hoey Long is showing signs of weakening, along psychological lines. He promised to send every boy to college, when everybody knew that where the boy really wants to go is swimming or to a ball game.

Odd Symptom-Complexes Due to New Compounds

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WITH THE startlingly rapid advance of chemistry and the introduction of new chemical compounds into industry and medicine, there are peculiar symptoms and complexes appearing.

Dr. Clendingning

Such was the case with a peculiar blood condition, which is usually recognized as a chronic poisoning with some new compound.

Such was the case with a peculiar blood condition, which is usually recognized as a chronic poisoning with some new compound.

Somehow, knowledge of industrial poisoning helps us to add a new drug to our list. Certain chlorinated hydrocarbons, notably tetrachloroethane, are very efficient fat and rubber solvents, and are non-inflammable. Thus they were used for such things as burning a coating over the wings of airplanes. They were all found to have poisonous characteristics, but they were so much so that it has been out of use. But with another and less toxic compound, trichloroethylene, the two properties were found to be combined, combining in the same way of making a coating over the wings. It occurred to this physician who was familiar with the effect that the distance to be traveled in the treatment of industrial poisoning for the commoners. It was found to be combined in most of the cases in which it was used. It is pointed out as a household and industrial. Care must be taken not to get an overdose, for while those who have used it for medicinal purposes say there is a sudden lowering of the blood pressure, which is a good thing, the effect of the blood.

Not a few of the cases of industrial poisoning have resulted in the use of this compound. In fact, out of a series of fifteen patients with the disease, it was possible to obtain a history of the use of and the effect of the compound.

Making Custard Pie Comedy in Sound With Old Stars Delights Hollywood

But Tears Mingle With Laughter on Sets as Days Gone By Are Recalled; Ford Sterling Champion Pastry Thrower

You will see these old-timers again, for Hollywood is reviving the old pie-throwing comedies.

Ford Sterling and Hank Mann doing a scene.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 8.—Say, folks, do you remember the custard pie comedies of pre-war days, the Keystone Cops and cross-eyed Ben Turpin?

You used to sit in a movie and laugh fit to split your sides. Now you sit and chuckle at Mickey Mouse and marvel at the mechanical intricacies of the animated cartoon. But good ol' horse laughs will be in order again soon, for Hollywood is reviving the old type comedy—with all the trimmings.

Today, sound machines are picking up the swishing, gurgling plunk of the pies as they land on the faces of your old favorites. The new comedies will be talkies, but the old technique will be the same. People will chase each other over roofs, they will pop in and out of clothes closets, husbands will hide under beds, automobiles will crash through barns, and always the Keystone Cops will arrive in the nick of time. A dog under a banquet table will wag his tail against a woman's ankle and the next moment the gentleman on her left will receive a resounding smack in the face. And a free-for-all pie-throwing orgy will be on!

"Experts" Called In All of the old experts have been called in. There is Ford Sterling with his spade beard, Chester Conklin with the precarious trousers, cock-eyed Ben Turpin, Hank Mann with the plastered bangs and the expression of a coy horse as he looks over the bathing girls who will grace the picture just as in the old days. You will recognize Marie Prevost, Juanita Hansen, Vivian Oakland and other old favorites.

Not in years has Hollywood been so excited. Technicolor, television and third dimension angles have caused only a mild ripple of interest compared to the enthusiasm shown in the revival of the art of throwing pies. To carry on a tradition sacred to old-timers, all of the pies being used are made on the set on the movie lot. Not one of the old experts would think of throwing a bakery pie.

Ford Sterling holds the world record for pie-throwing—210 feet 5 1/2 inches. He uses a full-crust apple pie, taking the discus style and whirling around twice before he lets it fly. His custard pie record is just short of 200 feet. With a lemon meringue pie, even in his heyday, he could clear only 113 feet before it lost its filling.

Underhand Delivery Hank Mann uses the underhand delivery. The pie leaves his hand edge on, curves sharply right, and proceeds full ahead so that when it lands the contents are in a position to do the most good. He prefers pumpkin and raisin pies. Conklin uses the overhand curve delivery, and when his pies reach their mark they have lost not one drop of custard. Cherry pies have no standing at all with the comedians. The cherries scatter like buck shot and leave stains wherever they land.

Ben Turpin is one of the worst pie-throwers in Hollywood, but is the finest receiver of them all. According to Turpin, he always catches a pie with his eyes open. You can spot an amateur because he closes his eyes. Turpin likes coconut and banana cream pies best.

Hundreds of Pies Thrown So far, there have been 749 pies thrown in the current comedy, which will be called "Keystone Hotel." You can see how many hearty guffaws you are in for, folks.

Many film notables who started their careers with the old Biograph, Snippet and Keystone companies have visited the set as interested spectators to observe this revival of real comedy. Mack Sennett, Charlie Chaplin, Charlie Murray, Louis Fazenda, Gloria Swanson, Virginia Fox, Phyllis Haver, Polly Moran, Al St. John, Harold Lloyd and others have dodged the pies and stumbled over props as they exchanged reminiscences. Audiences will laugh again—but on the set team mingle with the laughter too, though the players have no real wish to turn back the calendar, they have found the magic of the old days has gone forever.

Brother's Wife Dies After Baby's Birth

G. L. Harrah, of the circulation staff of The Herald, received word today of the sudden death of his brother's wife, Mrs. C. L. Harrah, which occurred in a hospital at Akron, death following a short time after a Caesarian operation was performed.

The life of the baby, a nine-pound boy, was saved. Mr. Harrah's first wife died four years ago from the effects of the same kind of an operation.

Mr. Harrah is employed as inventory man for the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., and another brother, J. W. Harrah, is prosecuting attorney of Summit Co.

Supreme Court Refuses to Review Lancaster Case; Jordan is Serving Time.

LANCASTER, June 20.—Five directors of the Security Savings Co., this city, are held responsible to stockholders of the institution for damage because of speculation of Harry C. Jordan, one of the five, secretary of the firm who is now serving a penitentiary term. The state supreme court today had refused to review the fight of the other stockholders to evade liability.

The directors and the amounts for which they are held responsible are: Clyde L. King, $110,712.98 with interest from Jan. 1, 1931; Charles H. Towson, a similar sum; Wilbur E. Armstrong, $94,212.98 with interest; Jesse W. Hughes, $97,000 with interest; and Jordan, $110,712.98 with interest at 7 per cent and $10,712.98 with interest at 6 per cent.

Judge John R. King of the trial court held in his decision that the directors were negligent in performing their duties. He found that Jordan embezzled from 1920 to 1931, $117,141.48 and concealed the theft by making false entries. The directors charged Jordan was the only man responsible.

Mr. King is related in this city.

EXTRA DOLLAR VALUE—instead of extra cost

BUILT many dollars of extra value into the 1935 Ford V-8 and then reduced the price.

Safety glass all around at no extra cost... "Comfort Zone" riding, which gives back seat passengers a "front seat ride"... A luggage compartment, built into the car... Fenders that match the car... Big 6.00 x 16-inch air-balloon tires (extra wide tread).

Study these features carefully. If they were not provided as part of the purchase price, you would find they represented an extra cost running into many additional dollars. But they are all included in the delivered price of the new Ford V-8... Consider this when purchasing your 1935 car.

No matter what you want in a car—style, safety, speed, power, economy or comfort—the Ford V-8 will meet your needs. See it today at your Ford dealer's. It is the biggest dollar value in Ford history.

Cites Two Plants

In his argument for municipal ownership of the power plant, Hammel pointed out the Galion and Piqua plants and their successors.

"You officials," he declared, "have allowed the utilities to charge whatever they pleased and you've done nothing about it. You've had as much time as any other city but you've done nothing about it except sit back on your haunches. Believe me, this city is going to do something about municipal ownership if we have to get out a petition."

DAVEY ASSAILED BY OSU PRESIDENT

Making Custard Pie Comedy in Sound With Old Stars Delights Hollywood

But Tears Mingle With Laughter on Sets as Days Gone By Are Recalled; Ford Sterling Champion Pastry Thrower

You will see these old-timers again, for Hollywood is reviving the old pie-throwing comedies.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 8.—

Say, folks, do you remember the custard pie comedies of pre-war days, the Keystone Cops and cross-eyed Ben Turpin?

You used to sit in a movie and laugh fit to split your sides. Now you sit and chuckle at Mickey Mouse and marvel at the mechanical intricacies of the animated cartoon. But good ol' horse laughs will be in order again soon, for Hollywood is reviving the old type comedy—with all the trimmings.

Today, sound machines are picking up the swishing, gurgling plunk of the pies as they land on the faces of your old favorites. The new comedies will be talkies, but the old technique will be the same. People will chase each other over roofs, they will pop in and out of clothes closets, husbands will hide under beds, automobiles will crash through barns, and always the Keystone Cops will arrive in the nick of time. A dog under a banquet table will wag his tail against a woman's ankle and the next moment the gentleman on her left will receive a resounding smack in the face. And a free-for-all pie-throwing orgy will be on!

"Experts" Called In

All of the old experts have been called in. There is Ford Sterling with his spade beard, Chester Conklin with the precarious trousers, cock-eyed Ben Turpin, Hank Mann with the plastered bangs and the expression of a coy horse as he looks over the bathing girls who will grace the picture just as in the old days. You will recognize Marie Prevost, Juanita Hansen, Vivian Oakland and other old favorites.

Not in years has Hollywood been so excited. Technicolor, television and third dimension angles have caused only a mild ripple of interest compared to the enthusiasm shown in the revival of the art of throwing pies. To carry on a tradition sacred to old-timers, all of the pies being used are made on the set on the movie lot. Not one of the old experts would think of throwing a bakery pie.

Ford Sterling holds the world record for pie-throwing—210 feet, 5 1/2 inches. He uses a full-crust apple pie, taking the discus stance and whirling around twice before he lets it fly. His custard pie record is just short of 200 feet. With a lemon meringue pie, even in his heyday, he could clear only 113 feet before it hit the filling.

Underhand Delivery

Hank Mann uses the underhand delivery. The pie leaves his hand edge on, curves sharply right, and proceeds full ahead so that when it lands the victim is in a position to do the least about it. He prefers pumpkin and custard pies. Conklin uses the overhand curve delivery, and when his pie reaches the mark they have lost not one drop of custard. Cherry pies have no standing at all with the comedians. The cherries scatter like buckshot as they leave their whirler's hand.

Ben Turpin is one of the worst pie-throwers in Hollywood, but is the finest receiver of them all. According to Turpin, he always catches a pie with his open palm. You can spot an amateur by the way he closes his eyes. Turpin likes cocomoni and banana cream pies best.

Hundreds of Pies Thrown

So far, there have been 749 pies thrown in the current comedy, which will be called "Keystone Hotel." You can see how many hearty guffaws you are in for, folks.

Many film notables who started their careers with the old Biograph, Sennett and Keystone companies have visited the set as interested spectators to observe this revival of real comedy. Mack Sennett, Charlie Chaplin, Charlie Murray, Louis Fazenda, Gloria Swanson, Virginia Fox, Phyllis Haver, Polly Moran, Al St. John, Harold Lloyd and others have dodged the pies and stumbled over props as they exchanged reminiscences. Audiences will laugh again—but on the set tears mingle with the laughter, for, though the players have no real wish to turn back the calendar, they have found the magic of the old days has gone forever.

Brother's Wife Dies After Baby's Birth

G. L. Harrah, of the cremation plant at The Hill, received word today of the sudden death of his son-in-law, Mr. C. L. Harrah, who died after a short illness following a short time after a Caesarian operation was performed.

The wife of the elder Harrah, a former Mrs. Harrah, died four years ago from the effects of the same kind of an operation.

Mr. Harrah is employed as an inventory man for the Cleveland Ice & Refrigerator Co., and another son, J. W. Harrah, is presently an attorney at the Hill.

Judge John R. King of the trial court held in his decision that the directors were negligent in performing their duties. He found that Jordan embezzled from 1929 to 1931, $147,141.45 and concealed the theft by making false entries. The directors charged Jordan was the only man responsible.

CITIES SERVICE TEAM RALLIES AND WINS 4-3

Comes From Behind to Edge Pickaway Dairy in Cold Game Wednesday Eve.

In weather that was much more suited for a snowball fight, the Cities Service Oils increased their first place lead Wednesday evening defeating a hard-fighting Pickaway Dairy team, 4-3.

The dairy crew, taking advantage of its opportunities although poor baserunning lost at least one run, took a 3-0 lead on the Oils in the first six innings.

Jaggy Davis' double to left in the 11th half of the sixth plated Hegele and Merle Davis and the Oils went on to win in the last of the seventh when two more markers crossed the platter.

Good Mound Duel

The contest was a duel between Leonard Buskirk for the Oils and Eddie Callahan for the Dairy. Both hurled good ball, each getting several strikeouts. Bases on balls, however, kept both in difficulty.

The Dairy will play again tonight and also on Friday, providing the weather is fit. This week, if both games are played, will wind up the first round of the first half. Each team will play each other team before the first half is ended. The winner of the first half will play the winner of the second half.

The Purina Chows will provide the Dairy opposition tonight and the Jones Specials will be the opponent Friday.

CARNERA SAYS TWO FACTS TO AID HIM

LAKE OWASCO, N. Y., June 20.—Primo Carnera today cited two reasons why he can and will lick Joe Louis next Tuesday. The first is simple as the mind that conceived it. And equally understandable. The second is complex and leads one to believe Primo must have been reading a book. In any event, here they are:

(1) "No short puncher can lick me and Louis is a short puncher."

(2) "Like all negroes, Louis must have an inferiority complex when he's fighting a white man. I'll be the boss in that ring and he'll know it."

GRANGE TO COACH

CHICAGO, June 20.—Harold "Red" Grange, his playing days at an end, today had accepted an offer to become backfield coach for the Chicago Bears, National Professional football league team, with which he starred for nine years.

George Halas, president-coach of the Bears said he had offered "The Galloping Ghost" the job of head coach, but Grange preferred one with lesser responsibility as a starter.

Grange turned in his playing uniform after the Bears western tour last winter, having completed his 237th game of football.

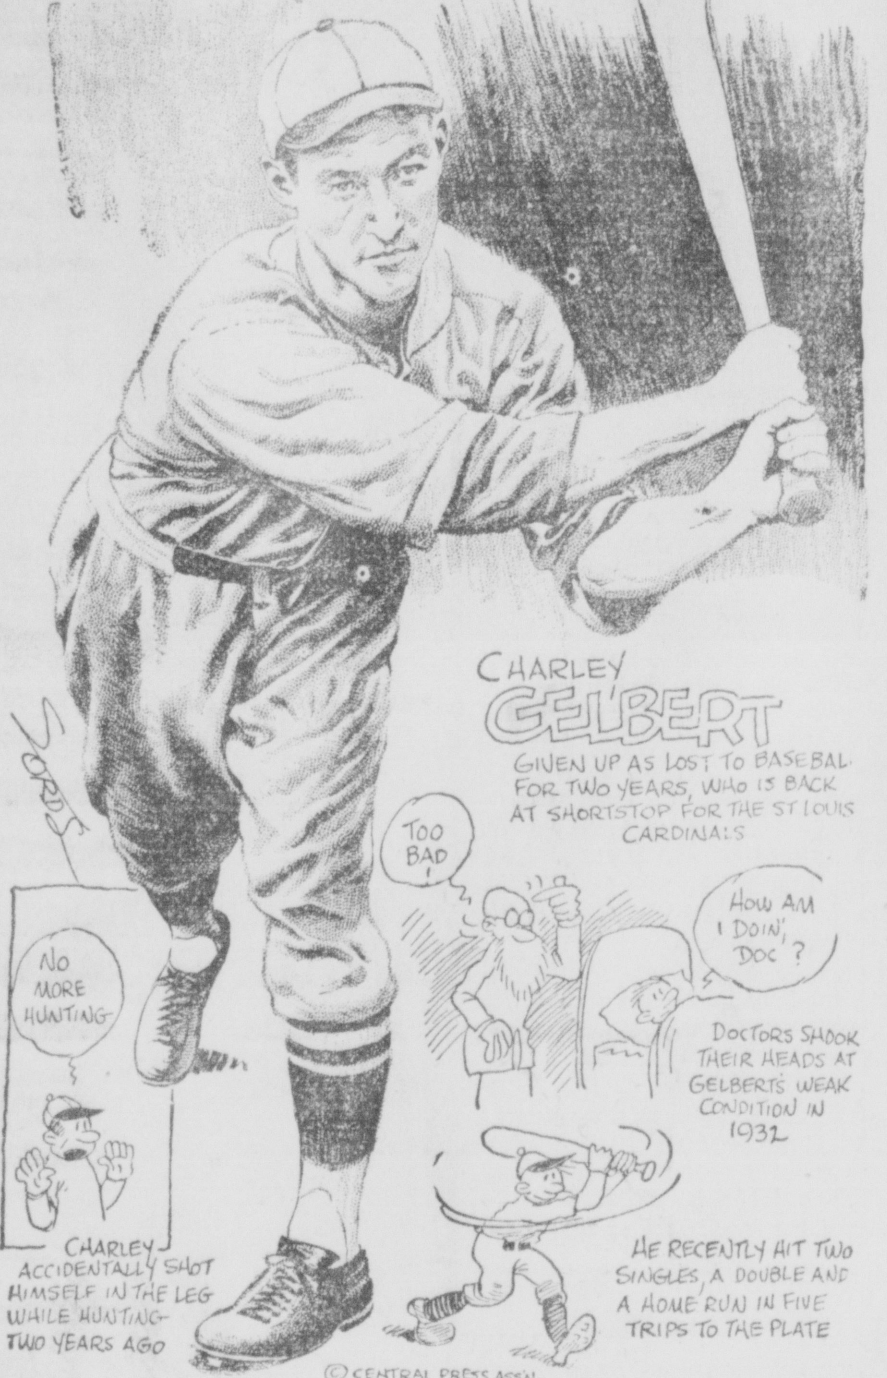

It was figured he had carried the ball 4,013 times for an average gain of 8.2 yards, scoring 531 touchdowns.

JUST OVERLOOKING

"And the vacation resort overlooked a lake?"

"Yes, and it overlooked comfortable beds, good food and everything else besides!"

BAER MANAGER HURLS CHARGE

Hoffman Says His Fighter Was Tamed With Before Title Match.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 20 — Open and unqualified charges of interference and tampering with Max Baer before his losing fight with Braddock last week were aired with considerable freedom today by the ex-champion's manager, Ancil Hoffman, in an exclusive statement to the writer.

He said Baer was a "changed man" from the moment he hit New York the day before the fight. He mentioned a pent house in which this remarkable change was alleged to have taken place. He quoted a scene in the dressing room in which bandages, prescribed by Hoffman, were materially altered while his back was turned.

In a word, somewhere in between the time they arrived in New York from the training camp and the moment when Baer entered the ring to make one of the most grotesque fights of all history, somebody seems to have permanently borrowed Mr. Hoffman's prize fighter.

"I don't want to make direct accusations until I'm sure of exactly what happened," Hoffman said. "I'm going to find out, however. Baer entered the ring with bad hands and we let him do it, thinking he had a cinch. We made a mistake there and we freely admit it now."

CITIES SERVICE
TEAM RALLIES
AND WINS 4-3

Comes From Behind to Edge
Pickaway Dairy in Cold
Game Wednesday Eve.

In weather that was much more suited for a snowball fight, the Cities Service Oils increased their first place lead Wednesday evening defeating a hard-fighting Pickaway Dairy team, 4-3.

The dairy crew, taking advantage of its opportunities although poor baserunning lost at least one run, took a 3-0 lead on the Oils in the first six innings.

Jaggy Davis' double to left in the Oil half of the sixth plated Hegele and Merle Davis and the Oils went on to win in the last of the seventh when two more markers crossed the platter.

Good Mound Duel

The contest was a duel between Leonard Buskirk for the Oils and Eddie Callahan for the Dairy. Both hurled good ball, each getting several strikeouts. Bases on balls, however, kept both in difficulty.

The Dairy will play again tonight and also on Friday, providing the weather is fit. This week, if both games are played, will wind up the first round of the first half. Each team will play each other team before the first half is ended. The winner of the first half will play the winner of the second half.

The Purina Chows will provide the Dairy opposition tonight and the Jones Specials will be the opponent Friday.

CARNERA SAYS TWO FACTS TO AID HIM

LAKE OWASCO, N. Y., June 20.—Primo Carnera today cited two reasons why he can and will lick Joe Louis next Tuesday. The first is simple as the mind that conceived it. And equally understandable. The second is complex and leads one to believe Primo must have been reading a book. In any event, here they are:

(1). "No short puncher can lick me and Louis is a short puncher."

(2). "Like all negroes, Louis must have an inferiority complex when he's fighting a white man. I'll be the boss in that ring and he'll know it."

GRANGE TO COACH

CHICAGO, June 20.—Harold "Red" Grange, his playing days at an end, today had accepted an offer to become backfield coach for the Chicago Bears, National Professional football league team, with which he starred for nine years.

George Halas, president-coach of the Bears said he had offered "The Galloping Ghost" the job of head coach, but Grange preferred one with lesser responsibility as a starter.

Grange turned in his playing uniform after the Bears western tour last winter, having completed his 237th game of football.

It was figured he had carried the ball 4,013 times for an average gain of 8.2 yards, scoring 531 touchdowns.

WOULDN'T GIVE UP - - By Jack Sords

About This And That

BY THE
SECOND GUESSER

T. D. Van, Runs Out

With his favorite, T. D. Van, running out of the money, Harry Short, Wayne-twp native, won two second places in the Grand circuit program at Lexington, Ky. Wednesday. . . . His Calumet Devil won second in the 2:18 pacing event for a $500 purse, Peter Paul winning first, and his Tracy Hanover was second in the $500 3-year-old pace, Calumet Fingo won that race. * * *

Arky For Arkansas

Whether or not you are interested Floyd Vaughn, Pitts-burgh's ministerial young shortstop, gets his nickname, "Arky," because he comes from Arkansas. * * *

Gudat Five-for-Five

Remember Marvin Gudat, who once performed for the Columbus Senators? He's still in action playing left field for Los Angeles, leader in the Pacific coast league. . . . Last week, he scored five consecutive hits, all singles, did not drive in a run and his team lost, 7-8 to Sacramento. . . . Tom Angley, also a former Columbus-ite, was dropped last week by Houston, member of the farm chain. * * *

May Outdraw Champion

This Carnera-Louis fight will be a bloody one, you can bet. Both men know that victory means a shot at the title-maybe. It is even possible that either could win the belt worn by Jimmy Braddock but it is even more possible that Max Schmeling of Berlin and points cast will get the first crack at the championship. There is a possibility that the Carnera-Louis fight, scheduled next Tuesday, will draw as many checkers as did that of Baer and Braddock. * * *

The Alp Experiences

Carnera's size and experience may make him the favorite but we're going to string with Louis. The big Detroit negro lad is being pushed too fast, probably, but his will to win is much greater than Carnera's. * * *

Little Known Facts About Banking

An Interesting Fact to be Remembered

It is not generally known that the banks outside the larger cities of the country have granted, all through the depression, far more loans, proportionately, than the banks from which "loan statistics" are usually gathered.

In fact, had it not been for the splendid cooperation of the independent, home-owned, home-managed banks in the smaller cities and communities, local enterprise would have suffered more than it did.

The so-called "country banker" by his knowledge of local conditions, his intimate acquaintance with his customers and his willingness to "go along" with worthy borrowers, helped far more than is generally known to cushion the heaviest blow ever felt by the American people.

Little Known Facts About Banking

An Interesting Fact to be Remembered

It is not generally known that the banks outside the larger cities of the country have granted, all through the depression, far more loans, proportionately, than the banks from which "loan statistics" are usually gathered.

In fact, had it not been for the splendid cooperation of the independent, home-owned, home-managed banks in the smaller cities and communities, local enterprise would have suffered more than it did.

The so-called "country banker" by his knowledge of local conditions, his intimate acquaintance with his customers and his willingness to "go along" with worthy borrowers, helped far more than is generally known to cushion the heaviest blow ever felt by the American people.
